
DIEGO SANCHEZ

DRUM, PIANO & GUITAR INSTRUCTOR

Diego Sanchez is a professional drummer, music composer and music educator. He teaches drums, piano and guitar at Music Quarters. His experience includes teaching music theory at an elementary, middle and high school in Bogota, Columbia and teaching drums for several years. With his music theory background he offers beginning piano students a great start to their piano education. He also combines his music experiences into teaching guitar as well.

Diego has attended music schools in Columbia to include the COMCES Music School and the Jazz School Mario Baracaldo focusing on Jazz Drumming. He attended the University in Colombia completing his degree in Business Administration.

Diego has a list of many bands he has performed with over the years whether it was live production, video production or recording. He enjoys composing music and is currently working on a solo project.

Diego has a passion for drums, loves playing the piano and guitar and enjoys teaching others of all ages to learn how to play.
